

Sixth Months Old

Contributed by Jessica
Wednesday, 27 June 2007
Last Updated Thursday, 06 March 2008

Actually, if I would have waited another week or so this would be titled Seven Month Update...oops. A little slow there.

Anna is not at all happy sitting still. She is working on crawling. She is able to move using her arms and one leg with the other leg being dragged. Tonight though she came close, actually it was more so a bear walk then a crawl, but she was not sitting still. Anna is also working on her walking skills. She's slowly getting her confidence up to walk along the furniture while holding onto only one of my or Damion's hand. She does get excited though if somebody wants to hold both her hands and take her for a walk.

As usual there are pictures in the gallery. There are pictures from Anna's sixth month photo shoot and miscellaneous pictures taken throughout the month of June. A bit of a warning though, the album for June 23 may not be for everybody (ie the weak hearted, nanas, or grandmas).