

Anti Poker Night at the Apollo.....aka My House

Contributed by Jessica
Wednesday, 26 March 2008
Last Updated Wednesday, 26 March 2008

In case you don't read comments (shame on you!) you have missed out on a suggestion, and two seconds on that thought, regarding a scrapbook night each month. The thought, as I stated, was two poker nights equal one mom's night out plus a scrapbook night.....trust me, the math works, its married math we're doing with here, which is actually a lot easier to follow than pregnant math

So, my question to the public that would be willing/wanting to attend, is there a particular day that works better than another for everybody? I figured if I make it a posting versus an email, all you closet scrapbookers will respond and not be left out.

Also, I did try to upload some pictures of the kids tonight, but there was a slight issue and unfortunately my site administrator is in AZ with a two hour time difference and didn't get my IM about the problem because he was at dinner. He said he'd try to look at it tonight so maybe, just maybe, tomorrow night you'll be blessed with pictures of our children....off to watch the season finale of Battlestar Galactica season 3 before the new season starts next week.